ROUTELLE & BURR, PROPRIETORS.
C. A. RUTELLE, Editor.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1886.

The Massachusetts Manufacturers and the Liqueur Dealers' Association of that State are both engaged in the same task, trying to cut down Oliver Ames' majority. Trade and free run go hand in hand in the pending campaign.

"Blunderbuss" Roosevelt is the manner in which the New York Herald speaks of the Republican candidate. The tone of the Herald for the past few days would indicate that it is afraid, the gun is heavily charged and well aimed.

The citizens of the towns of Dover and Foxcroft are agitating the question of a water supply, and a meeting is called for this evening to consider the matter. It is better to act before rather than after a fire. A good supply of water is one of the best investments a town can make.

Representative Rutelle was in New York Thursday to attend the ceremonies at the unveiling of the statue. He spoke in New Brunswick, New Jersey, Thursday night, at Atlantic City last night, and has been invited by Senator Sevier to be his guest and speak with Mr. Blaine at Camden Monday night.

In his speech at Williamsport, Pa., Colonel H. C. Parsons, of Virginia, a large employer of colored labor, fully corroborated the recent statements of Mr. Blaine in regard to the relative wages of colored and white labor, says the Press. Mr. Parsons says that it is safe to estimate the average price paid for colored labor measured by product in eleven of the Southern States at nearly one-third less than was paid in Pennsylvania. And in this estimate we find he is sustained by the National Bureau of Labor Statistics, at least so far as miners' wages are concerned. Carroll D. Wright, reporting the average price of coal miners in Pennsylvania $1.73 per day and in Virginia $1.17 per day. Mr. Parsons' account of the hovers in which the cheap colored labor of the South live is in keeping with all other impartial statements of the condition of the colored people of the South. Outside of the county seat of so-called prosperous county in Virginia two-thirds of all the houses escape assessment, because houses valued at less than $50 are not assessable for taxes. Not one savings bank for 2,000,000 people. Mr. Parsons' description of Virginia corresponds exactly with Samuel May's account of Alabama, published in the Press in 1884. Both speak of what they know, for they both live in the States whose industrial condition they describe.

In an interview in Pennsylvania Senator Sherman said: "I have no doubt that the Morrison Tariff bill will be again presented in the next Congress, but should the Democrats secure the control of both houses a much more sweeping bill than that submitted by Mr. Morrison would be introduced in Congress. Specially Mr. Randall has failed to obtain re-election. That shows that the Democratic party is in favor of free trade. There is not the slightest doubt as to their position upon the subject. As a party they are opposed to the protective policy. The Southern members would favor such radical changes that his party favors free trade. Such legislation, however, would make it impossible for the manufacturers of the South or in any other section of the country to compete with the productions of Europe. There could be no successful competition unless the wages of labor in the country are brought down to what is paid in England and elsewhere."

The Coming Elections. The political pot has been boiling with more or less activity for some weeks past in thirty-five States of the Union where the verdict of the voters will be recorded at the polls on Tuesday next. The following will give our readers an idea of the general scope of the elections in the various States:

Alabama elects eight Congressmen. Arkansas elects five Congressmen. California elects State officers, Legislature and six Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State relative to the assessment of taxes. Colorado elects State officers, Legislature and one Congressman. Connecticut elects State officers, Legislature and four Congressmen. Delaware elects Governor, Legislature and one Congressman. Florida elects Legislature and two Congressmen. Georgia elects State officers, Legislature and 20 Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State to abolish the contract system in the State. Indiana elects minor State officers and 10 Congressmen. Iowa elects minor State officers and 11 Congressmen. Kansas elects State officers, Legislature and seven Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State to reorganize the judiciary. Kentucky elects State officers, Legislature and seven Congressmen. Louisiana elects 6 Congressmen. Maine elects State officers, Legislature and 10 Congressmen. Massachusetts elects State officers, Legislature and 10 Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State. Minnesota elects State officers, Legislature and five Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State to facilitate the erection of county school buildings. Mississippi elects seven Congressmen. Missouri elects minor State officers and 14 Congressmen. Nebraska elects State officers, Legislature and three Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State. Nevada elects State officers, Legislature and seven Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State. New Hampshire elects Governor, Legislature and two Congressmen. New Jersey elects Governor, Legislature and seven Congressmen. New York elects a Judge of the Court of Appeals, Assemblymen and thirty-four Congressmen, and votes upon the question of holding a convention to revise the Constitution of the State. North Carolina elects Justices of the Supreme Court, Legislature and nine Congressmen. Ohio elects minor State officers and 31 Congressmen. Pennsylvania elects State officers, Legislature and 28 Congressmen, (one on the general ticket). Rhode Island elects two Congressmen. South Carolina elects State officers, Legislature and seven Congressmen, and votes upon two proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State. Tennessee elects Governor, Legislature, and 10 Congressmen. Texas elects State officers, Legislature, and 10 Congressmen. Virginia elects State officers, Legislature and 4 Congressmen. Wisconsin elects State officers, Legislature and 9 Congressmen, and votes upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution which will prohibit the election of women the right to vote at school elections. The eight organized Territories, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, each elect one Delegate to Congress, who is entitled to a seat in the House and to speak, but not to vote.

An additional interest has been imparted to the campaign by the fact that in a number of States the Legislature elected this fall will in turn elect a United States Senator to the Fifty-fifth Congress. In New York, New Jersey and Connecticut the Democrats have put particular attention to this phase of the contest, hoping to increase their strength in the upper branch of Congress, but there is little reason to expect any material change in the political complexion of the incoming legislatures of these States in each of which the Republicans now have a working majority. As regards the outcome of the Congressional elections there is no reason to doubt that the Republicans will be considerably stronger in the next House than they now are. Many are sanguine in the belief that the Democratic majority will be wiped out entirely, but while there are unmistakable signs that the people are becoming very generally disgusted with the present system of protecting our present industrial system from Democratic assaults, still the Democrats have a majority of forty-one in the present House, and to get rid of this in one election is a big undertaking. Nevertheless the Democrats are very much distressed by the outlook and admit that their majority will probably be reduced to a small margin. The Boston Post, for instance, says that conservative Democrats do not hope to retain a majority of more than seventeen. A gain of twenty-four Republican Congressmen would be a magnificent victory and would mean that the next succeeding Congress will be controlled by the Republicans as well as the next Administration.

"Free Raw Materials." [Boston Journalist.] The free traders have as a class ceased to cry free products and are now devoting themselves to a demand for free raw materials. The demand for raw materials is a subject to which the present system. In 1884 the articles in the free trade list were valued at $143,000,000, of which $61,000,000 worth were free of duty. Among these articles were hides and skins, chemicals, drugs and dyes, India rubber, tin, manufactured silk, paper stock, wool, furs and fur skins, hair, etc. By the legislation of 1885 all crude drugs and substances not edible were put on the free list. By that revision more than 250 articles were brought on the free list. The free traders are not satisfied with the condition of free trade materials, but are specially desirous to have those which are produced in this country put upon the free list, particularly those in which a large number of American people are interested.

Of course wool is the raw material concerning which this is chiefly raised. It has always borne more or less duty, but under the protective policy it has been so large as to encourage the industry to an extent that American wool-growers can supply the market, except for a few of the lower grades used in carpets and some of the finer wools which enter into the production of high grade goods. In 1880 the wool clip in this country was 30,000,000 pounds; in 1885 it was 32,000,000 pounds. At the present time 1,100,000 people in this country have an interest in the wool-growing industry. Experience and skill are necessary to produce the best wool, and it is a most important element in the production of wool. It is no more a raw material than is the steel out of which cutlery is made.

There is no foreign market for our woolen goods. Indeed, the fact that we import an average of $40,000,000 worth of woolen goods annually shows that we have no woolen goods to sell abroad, and that there is a larger stockpile any time than there is a market for it is because importation has been excessive. The value of wools imported during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1885, was $14,000,000, of which $7,750,000 was represented by carpet wools not produced in this country and which at duty of 25 percent. The larger part of the rest of the importation of wools is of those varieties which are not produced in abundance here. For the most part our clip is abundant for the home market, and the price as low as our people can produce it, with any grade. To put wool upon the free list would export 1,100,000 wool-growers in this country to the wools which so cheaply in the Argentine Republic and Australia. Wool might be somewhat cheaper for a season, but as our stock markets retired from a profitless competition, price would advance. At other considerations is that sheep husbandry affords our people an abundant and excellent food which could not be obtained from any other source. The protectionists for the most part hold that wool should not be put upon the free list, particularly while the woolen goods produced by our own manufacturers can be bought for a smaller expenditure of money as measured by wages than in any country on the globe.
